A Rio Grande City correspondent of the Texas Ranchero gives the following painful history, which reminds us of the days of Salem witcheraft and Puritan superstition:

There is a man living at Camargo named Ambrosio Ramierez, who has been for some time suffering from a loathsome disease. As he has been unable to recover by the medical treatment he has received, both limited and wife concluded he had been bewitched by an inoffensive woman, named Antonio Alania. An American citizen and a resident of Roma, Marias Samierez, the father of this Ambrosio Ramierez, who is one of the most wealthy Mexicans on the river, owning a large truct of land and much stock on this side, sent a party of men to the house of the poor Antonio Alania to kidnap and take her to Camargo. This they did in the most brutal manner. They issued her and dragged her on the ground until they feared she would ale, and they would not be able to get her to Camargo. They beat one of her daughters very hadly for interfering to protect her poor mother, shot at another for the same reason, but finally succeeded in taking the old woman across at Roma. She was taken to Camargo, severely beaten, and her body stuck full of thorus of prickly pear, and this beating, &c, repeated as soon as she recovered sufficiently to be able to endare it, for the space of some two woeks. This treatment of the wiftch did not, however, improve the health of the Gallico, and the witch doctor then told them that they must burn her; that the sick man had pigeon bones in his heal, and that as Salem witchcraft and Puritan superstition: that they must burn her; that the sick man had pigeon bones in his head, and that as soon as the witch commenced burning the soon as the witch commenced burning the boues would protrude, and he (the witch doctor) would then pull them out, and the man would recover! This was actually done. The poor woman was tied up and corn shucks lighted under her feet, and she kept in this horrid torture until she was so badly burnt that she soon afterward died.

CERRATIAN STYLE OF FEMALE APPAREL.—It is stated that the latest fashion announced from Enrope, is that of dressing very plainly when going to church. Some of the ladies of the first "olrele" go up to worship in plain calleo. It is thus sought to encourage the attendance of the poor who have hitherto withheld their presence for lack of "Sunday clothes." A sensible, not to say Christian idea, and will be more powerfully conducted to the promotion of religion among the mass than any other outside movement we can conserve of, not to speak of the inthe mass than any other outside movement we can conceive of, not to speak of the influence it will have upon the upon classes themselves, in removing from their immediate eye the surroundings of vanity which aboundate our "fashionable churches," and preparing them to "receive with meekness the ingrafted word which is able to save their souls." Over the portals of every Christian sanctuary it should be written, "The rich and the poor meet together; the Lord is the maker of them all."

INCREASE OF THE MATRIMONIAL EPIDEMIC IN IRELAND.—From New Year's day to the commencement of Lent is the great marrying season in many parts of Ireland. A late Irish journal says: The Irish "marrying season" has been, this year, more than usually successful, much to the advantage of the ciergy, the benefit of grocers, butchers and bakers, and the delectation of wedding-goers. The middle classes, particularly, made a first-rate turnout of it, and seldom within the same space of time have so many of their number fallen, willing victims to the griful wiles of Cupid as during the last month. The Lotiarios, too, have been most liberal in the payment of the marriage fees, and many a "good Father" buttoned his pocket upon a £20 or £30 note, after performing the deremony, as a reward for his kind service. INCREASE OF THE MATRIMONIAL EPIDEMIC IN

THE POLICE CHALLENGED TO DO THEIR DUTY. The Potles Challenger 70 by Their Dury. As a reward for his services, we guarantee that the officer making the arrest will be promptly discharged. Whitheasour of Opera-arrises.—Morelli, Lorini, Steffani and Assoni, with Ghioni as prima donna, have been moderately successful in Santiago de Cuba. Aldini, the contralto, who many in New York a few times in Trovatore, is with them, and Mr. Rasma in the Barber gave great satisfaction. Bolcioni, the tenor, has been singing at Naples, but broke his eng agement in a fit of anger. Steffanose is now one of the pets of the musical public of Namles. Nantier-Didice, Marini and Bettini ane engaged for 1800-81 at St. Petersburg. Tiberini, the tenor, wishes to return to this country, if he can get an engagement. Miss Seoncia has met with enthusiastic success at Lima, and will probably sing in this city on her return from South America.

THE OLD PRANOF FORMING A NEW SOUTH-MEN STATE REVIVED.—The old project of forming a new State out of Northern Missis-sippi, Western Tennessee and the extreme western point of Kentucky has been revived, and the Tennessee Legislature has given it its seattion. The proposed State would be bounded by the Tennessee River on the east, through the States of Kentucky and Tennes-see, and by the Mississippi on the west, and would contain a population of about 700,000.

FEMALER MODRING A SCHOOL-HOUSE.—Three noterious women, Kate Brown, Lucretia Garner and Eleanor Davis, residing in Hickory Township, Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, a few days since made a riotous attack with stones and clubs on the school-house, endangering the lives of the pupils, and compelling the teacher, Miss. Pontius, to dismiss the school. There existed some difficulty between them, and some of the schoolars, and they purhere and some of the scholars, and they pur

Ford struck Watson with a loaded whip and then statuted him, from which wounds he has since died. Ford made his

A Poor Day for Shooting.—A young man, writing from the Washee silver region, in California, says that it is the finest country in the world for shooting. Only a day prior to that upon which the letter was written, five men had been shot, "and," he remarks, "it was a poor day for shooting at that."

CAPTURING PREFORS BY SKYROGEFTS.—A large number of pigeons were recently captured near Cleveland, Ohio, by throwing heavy skyrockets into the flocks as they flew by, thus hewildering and causing them to come to the ground in great numbers.

A Suspected Witch Terribly Tortured and The Extant, Proportion and Cost of Euro-then Burnt to Death.

The British army, for the year 1860 is to consist of 240,000 men. This includes the whole force required for the protection of India, the Colonies and the British Islands in Europe. The cost will amount to $75,000,000, nominally averaging $312.50 for each man for twelve months. England, with a completion of 2000,000. coo, nominally averaging $312.50 for each man for twelve months. England, with a population of 28,000,000, has an army of 240,000, being a force in proportion to the population of one in 128 persons. France: population 38,000,000, an army of 378,000 men, or one in 95. This is the aumber in the estimates, but it is known that, the reserve not-being here included, the possible army of France may be raised to 600,000 in a month. of France may be raised to 600,000 in a month. Russia: population of 65,000,000, an army of 900,000 men—one in 71. Austria: population 40,000,000 men—one in 71. Austria: population 17,000,000, army 142,000—or one in 80. Spain: population 17,000,000, army 142,000—or one in 180. The regular army of the United States is small in number, but the militia is nearly 3,000,000 strong. In France the expenditures for national defenses amounted to one-half the public income; in Russia, one-third; Austria, as every one knew, was entirely crippled; in Prussia this expenditure was one-fourth of the public revenue; in Belgium, one-third; in Sardinia, forty per cent.; in Holland, one-fifth; in Switzerland, one-tanth; and, as to Spain, it was hardly possible to form any estimate respecting an army which took altree months to go about fifteen miles. Again, in the budget of 1861, the effective of the French Army, like that af the year previous, was 392,000 men, and 83,000 horses. The total military expenditure amounted to £13,800,000, while the English Army estimates were 332,000 men, and 83,000 horses. The total military expenditure amounted to £13,800,-000, while the English Army estimates were £14,842,000, without the militis, showing an excess over the French estimates of £1,042,-000. This proved the extravagance of the British expenditure. The French Army contained 56,000 men, and 58,000 horses more than the effective of the British Army, and yet England spent £1,042,000 more than France.

Improvement in California Artillery. The Sacramento Standard gives the following notice of some ingenious improvement in ordnance, particularly in guns intended for nountain service, invented by a Mr. Stodlard, who hails from Sonors, Tuolume County:

We have been shown an improvement in artillery, the production of a Californian, which is intended to be used in the mountain countries, or wherever horses can not be used to advantage. The inventor, Thomas R. Stoddard, insists that if a piece Fordmance be divided into sections, it not only is more portable but secrees them some set ness suidily. be divided into sections, it not only is more portable, but stronger than a gun cast solidly. His theory is, that if a caanon be divided into any number of sections and attached by a screw, that as the acrew is the strongest lever known in mechanics, when the sections are fitted together tightly, the piece will burst sooner at any place than the serew. By this simple means he is enabled to get the strongth of the cap inst where it is most by this simple means he is enabled to get the strength of the gun just where it is most needed, viz: between the breech and the trunnion. Besides this, he is enabled, by making the screw attachments all slike, to have either a long gun or a short one, according to the range desired.

THE INTENSE COLD OF THE JURA MOUNTAINS. A MAN TERRIBLY FROZEN.—Another death from cold has taken place in the French part of the mountains of the Jura, making, the local journals state, the eleventh in that district since the beginning of the winter. A man named Papet, of Champyaux, who had been on business at Arbors, was found three nights ago lying senseless in the snow at a short distance from Poligny; some gesidamies immediately went to the spot, but on moving him they found that his clothes were frozen so hard that they broke like glass. On, however, being covered with a cloak, he recovered sufficient consciousness to thank the gendarmes, and with their assistance to walk shout eight hundred yards. He then fainted, and was carried to the nearest house. There he again became conscious, and food was offered him; but, placed on his legs, he fell back and expired.

A CONVERTED MURDERESS IN PRISON.—The St. Paul (Minn.) Times, in speaking of Mrs. Bilansky, who is awaiting the execution of the sentence passed upon her for the murder of her husband, says that some three hundred ladies call on her daily. She was recently baptized by a Roman Catholic priest, and embraced the faith of that Church. She devotes her leisure time to religious matters and seems comforted and sustained by her new-born religious belief. She seems cheerful and courageous, converses pleasantly, yet is evidently affected by the dread doom which will meet her in about a week.

A DUTCH MINISTER NEARLY DECAPITATED BY A TURKISH EUNUCH.—Count Von Lughn, Dutch Minister to Constantinople, came very near having his head cleft in the streets of Pera, a short time since, for approaching too near the carriages of the Seragito, which contained several black-eyed beauties. The cunuch in charge of the equipages and his fair freight, leveled a blow with his sabre at the Duke's head, which would have found its way to the brains, had he not warded it off with his cane. The black was roughly handled by the bystanders.

HYATT, THE LAST MARTYR.—The Washington correspondent of the Ohio State Journal says of Hyatt: The appearance of the contumacions witness is somewhat striking. One could tell at once, without asking any questions, that he is a man by himself—not a fellow of words. He has a singular face, pale, nervous and rude, long black hair, and beard which stops somewhere short of his kness. Everybody who came into the gallery or upon the floor of the Senate seemed to be very curious to look upon the man.

EXCELLENCE OF FRENCH DRAMATIC ART. EXCELLENCE OF FRENCH DRAMATIC ART.— The Home Journal thinks the New York actors might take many hints from the graceful and natural deportment of the French artists there. The respectful enthusiasm of lovers, the touching tenderness between mother and son, the warm affection between members of a family, are portrayed with so much truthfulness, that acting is forgotten, and the creations of the author appear in their own persons.

Fare Negroes Regarded as a Numarca. It has lately been the custom of such of the negroes of Philadelphia, as possess the requisite cash and frugality, to purchase land in the near-by city of Camden, N. J., and to build and settle in that place. The disgnat of the citizens threat, however, has now become so great that it seems their Representative in the State's Senate has presented to that body a petition, praying for a law prohibiting further negro emigration.

A Venitian Dancenso's Adreitness in Ex-pressing her Political Opinions. The Paris correspondent of the New York. Times Says:

You have doubtless already seen how a dansense at one of the Atheaters of Venico managed to express on the stage her political opinions, in opposition to the police. At first the appeared in a dress uniting the three colors of the Sardinian flag. This was prohibited, and the next evening she appeared on the stage in white, with a green drop-curtain behind her, while one of her friends threw her a bouquet of red flowers from the boxes. This she pressed to her bosom and the three colors of Sardinia were united. The police suppressed the green curtain, and orthe three colors of Sardinia were united. The police suppressed the green curtain, and ordered that for the future site should dress differently. The patriotic girl then got one of her friends to throw her a bouquet with the three colors united, and this carried the fury of the police to the last point of forbearance. An order was issued that if over another bouquet was thrown on the stage, the danseuse should trample it under her feet. The next evening a bouquet was thrown to her, but this time it contained the colors of Austria. The girl, carrying out she order she had received, aprang upon it and trampled it to pieces, amid the frantic cheering of the house!

An Obstinute Beauty Deatreyed by a Carbunele.

A letter from Beuges, Belgium, in the Independence, says: "At a ball recently given by the Governor of that province, one of the handsomest women present was Madame—of Nieuport. In the course of the evening this lady conversed for a few moments with a physician of her acquaintance, who noticed a small black spot on the lady scheek. He told her of it, but the lady replied that it was only a little pimple, and would soon disappear. The doctor thought otherwise, and advised her to apply poultices immediately. She, however, declined to follow his advice. In about an hour after they again met, and the doctor saw that the spot was spreading, and that an operation was absolutely necessary; but neither he nor the lady's husband could induce her to listen to such a proposal. Before she left the ball the check had become painful and swollen, and, on reaching home poultices were applied, but too late, for the lady died on the following day. The disease which thus cut short her days was a carbuncle of the most malignant kind."

Excitement About the Publication of Humboldt's Private Correspondence. Excitement About the Publication of Humboldt's Private Correspondence.

There is at present a literary sensution in Europe. The celebrated publishing house of Brockiaus at Leipsic recently published a thick octave volume of "Letters from Alexander Von Humboldt to Varnhagen Von Ense," edited by a Miss Ludmilla Assing of Berlin. These letters, it appears, contain numerous satirical remarks on the King of Prussia and other individuals, compromising many, living persons. The letters—over two hundred and fifty in number—were never intended for publication, and it has been said that it would have been better for all parties had Miss Assing destroyed most of them. Miss Assing was the niece of Varnhagen, who died in October, 1858, and she found the letters among her uncle's papers. As soon as the Prüssian police were aware of the character of the book, its circulation was prolibited, which, of course, made everybody doubly desirious to see it. The Prince Regent, however, removed the prohibition.

The Brandon (Miss.) Republican of late date has the following: At the late term of Clark Clrouit Court, two men were tried for circulating a book called "Cotton is King," charged to be an incendiary document. The State was represented by the District Actoracy, assisted by Judge Evans, and the accused were defended by Judge Byrd, of Enterprise. After an investigation of the facts, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty whereupon an indignation meeting was held at Quitman, expressing condemnation of the verdict of the jury, but complimenting Judge Hancock for the ability and impartiality with which he presided on the trial. A similar meeting was held at Enterprise, in which Judge Byrd, who was Mayor of said town, was requested to resign his office. It is also stated one of the jurcors who sat on the case was burnt in effigy at Enterprise. Southern Panaticism.

CHEAR YAKKE BENEVOLENCE.—A correspondent of the New York Times, writing from Lynn, the seat of the great shoemakers strike, relates the following incident: A certain gentleman, noted for his deeds of kindness, announced with a flourish of trumpets that he would give twenty-five acres of wood to the strikers, if they would cut it; so some five hundred brave and true men shouldered their axes and went to the woodland, and cut and cut till one man split up his foot, another lost his finger, and the whole obtained the promised twenty-five acres of wood. So far so good, but the story goes that the wood is so poor that it couldn't possibly be sold, and the owner has succeeded in getting twenty-five acres of land cleared and the wood-growth carried off for nothing, and has been paid by having the sweet incense of philanthropy puffed in his nostrils.

Important Discovery—New Cotton Grow-

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY-NEW COTTON GROW IMPORTANT DISCOVERY—NEW COTTON GROW-ING AND CULTIVATING REGION IS APRICA.—Dr. Livingstone has made a new discovery of a "vast cotton growing and cotton manufacturing country," on the shores of Lake Nyassa, in the far interior of the continent. The cotton is of two kinds, native and foreign. The native is short in the staple, and feels more like wool than cotton. The latter is three-fourths of an inch in length, and perennial, and the description identifies it with the well known plant of the tropics, which, of course, is worthless. The most interesting statement is that the cotton was universally cultivated, and that cleaning, spinning and weaving establishments were found established throughout the whole country. It is added, however, that the machinery is of the simplest possible construction, and exceedingly slow.

THE VALUE OF THE AUSTRALIAN GOLD MINES.—According to a Landon statistical publication, the net gold produce of Victoria, a colony of Australia, from 1851 to June 30. 1853, was sixteen million five hundred and fifty-five thousand eight hundred and thirty-eight ounces, the value of which in sterling money was sixty-two million four hundred and twenty-eight thousand eight hundred and fifty-two pounds. The net quality and value of gold expected from the two colonies of Victoria and New South Wales, from May. 1851, to the 31st of December, 1857, is seventeen million twenty-three thousand four hundred and thirteen ounces, valued at sixty-fine million one hundred and sixty pounds sterling.

The Purchana System in the Engume

A.The Punchase System in the English Assy.—The purchase system in the English Army is in a fair way of being shoulshed. The Government have declared their willingness to exempt the Lieutenant-Colonclar from its operation, and select officers to in vacancies in the command of regiments from the whole number of Majors in the Army.

Washington.
Washington, March 27.—The Committee on Territories in the Senate directed its Chairman, at the last meating, to prepare bills for Nevada, Pike's Peak, Dacotah, and Afteona, in the ordinary form, to be submitted next Thursday. No condition in regard to slavery was proposed, but may be before they are presented to the Senate.

The House Committee have the subject still under consideration, and will probably adopt the Montreal boundaries for the new Territories proposed by the Senate, including Arizons. They intend, however, to assert the principal distinctly, in some form, that slavery be not, and cannot exist in these Territories, unless established by law.

the three colors united, and this carried list fury of the police to the last point of forbarrance. An order was issued that if ever another bouquet was thrown on the stage, the danseuse should trample it under her feet. The next evening a bouquet was thrown to her, but this time it contained the colors of Austria. The girl, carrying out the order she had received, spring upon it and trampled it to pieces, amid the frantic cheering of the bouse!

MILLEDGEVILLE, G.A., March 27.—A letter from Howell Cobh is published, in the course of which he says: "I must withdraw my name unconditioually from the cauxase, and this letter is written for the purpose of announcing to all who feel an interest in the matter, but particularly to the delegates from Georgia to the Charleston Convention, that I have done so."

Destructive Fire.

New York, March 27.—An extensive conflagration occurred in Brooklyn, vesterday, by which about $50,000 worth of property was destroyed. It broke out in Alan & McDoughan's rope-walk, on Walton-street, near Harris-avenue, which, together with a foundery, belonging to Charles Wooster, was entirely consumed.

Tonorro, March 28.—The government has finally taken steps to investigate the matter of the disappearance of John Sheridan Hogan, member of Parliament for Grey. Fears are entertained that there has been foul play. INTEGLECTUAL "SPIRITS" OPERATING A FLORENCE:—A series of wonderful spiritual exhibitions are in progress in Florence, Italy, which, in spire of the attractions of the Carnival, have been and are still attended by memorous and very select audiences. The spirits who assist at these exhibitions are said to be much more docile and obliging than those of Mr. Hume, who was here two years ago, and the performances of the Italian necromancers consequently east those of the famous American entirely into the shade. No deception has yet been detected, and if any is practiced, it is certainly of no vulgar sort.

QUEER WILL OF A HUNCH-BACKED MISSIL—The last will of a queer old miser who has just died is much talked of at Vienna. He cut off all his nearest relatives, and made a very distant one, an extremely handsome young girl, allo beiress of his considerable property. The testator was a hunchback and bad a clubfoot, which defects probably had obstructed many of his attempts to marry. He has made it, therefore, a condition, singua non, that the heiress is to get the property only when she marries a man shaped as he was and she is, besides, to live in a convent, three months in each year, to pray for his soul.

Sevene Naurical Justice.—A correspondent of a Paris paper, writing from Calcutta, says, that am East Indian, attempting to swim the Ganges, some time since, with a child in his arms, was pursued by a crocodile, and, in order to escape, he threw the child to the monster, by whom it was at once seized and devoured. A party of English and American sations, who witnessed this act, caught the Hindoo as he landed, threw him back into the stream, and pelted him with sticks and stones until he was himself seized by a crocodile and dragged out of sight.
